

Babanki

References

- [Akumbu] Akumbu, P. W. Competing babanki anaphors: Theoretical implications.
- [AKUMBU] AKUMBU, P. W. Tense-aspect marking in babanki.
- [3] Akumbu, P. W. (2011). Tone in kejom (babanki) associative construction. Journal of West African Languages, 38(1):69–88.
- [4] Akumbu, P. W. (2015a). Babanki verb tone. Studies in African Linguistics, 44(1):2–26.
- [5] Akumbu, P. W. (2015b). Single urs vs. allomorphy: The case of babanki coda consonant deletion. UC Berkeley PhonLab Annual Report, 11(11).
- [6] Akumbu, P. W. (2016). Babanki negation patterns. SKY Journal of Linguistics, 29.
- [7] Akumbu, P. W. (2018). Babanki literacy classes and community-based language research. Insights from Practices in Community-based Research: From theory to practice around the globe, pages 266–279.
- [8] Akumbu, P. W. (2019). A featural analysis of mid and downstepped high tone in babanki. Theory and description in African Linguistics, page 3.
- [9] Akumbu, P. W. and Asonganyi, E. P. (2010). Language in contact: The case of the ful e dialect of kejom (babanki).
- [Akumbu and Chie] Akumbu, P. W. and Chie, E. P. Understanding language diversity among the mbororo of northwest cameroon.
- [11] Akumbu, P. W. and Hyman, L. M. (2017). Nasals and low tone in grassfields noun class prefixes. Nordic Journal of African Studies, 26(1):13–13.
- [12] Akumbu, P. W., Hyman, L. M., and Kießling, R. (2020). The segmental and tonal structure of verb inflection in babanki. Phonological Data and Analysis, 2(2):1–33.
- [13] Hyman, L. M. (1979). Tonology of the babanki noun. Studies in African linguistics, 10(2):159–178.
- [14] Robbeets, M. and Bisang, W. (2014). Paradigm change: in the Transeurasian languages and beyond, volume 161. John Benjamins Publishing Company.
- [15] Wuchu, A. P. (1999). Nominal phonological processes in Babanki. PhD thesis, Université de Yaoundé Yaoundé.