

Joola-Eegimaa Bibliography (compiled by Tajudeen Mamadou Y.)

References

- [1] Bassene, M. (2012). Morphophonology of joola eegimaa.
- [2] Bassene, M. and Safir, K. (2017). Theory and description: Understanding the syntax of eegimaa verb stem morphology. In Africa's Endangered Languages: Documentary and Theoretical Approaches, pages 267–296. Oxford University Press.
- [3] Bassene, M. and Szatrowski, P. (2014). Food and identity in wolof and eegimaa. Language and Food: Verbal and Nonverbal Experiences, 238:103–130.
- [4] Hantgan, A., Sagna, S., and Davis, S. (2020). Moraic preservation and equivalence in gújjolaay eegimaa perfective reduplication. Journal of African Languages and Linguistics, 41(1):29–56.
- [5] Hantgan-Sonko, A. (2020). Synchronic and diachronic strategies of mora preservation in gújjolaay eegimaa. Journal of African Languages and Literatures, (1):1–25.
- [6] Safir, K. and Bassene, M. (2017). Morphosyntax and movement: Verb stems in jóola eegimaa. Natural Language & Linguistic Theory, 35(3):839–897.
- [Sagna] Sagna, S. A typological overview of gújjolaay eegimaa (banjal).
- [8] Sagna, S. (2008). Formal and semantic properties of the Gújjolaay Eegimaa (aka Banjal) nominal classification system. PhD thesis, SOAS University of London.
- [9] Sagna, S. (2010). Issues in noun classification and noun class assignment in gújjolay eegimaa (banjal) and other jóola languages. Studies in African Linguistics, 39(1):1–33.
- [10] Sagna, S. (2012). Physical properties and culture-specific factors as principles of semantic categorisation of the gújjolaay eegimaa noun class system. Cognitive Linguistics, 23(1):129–163.
- [11] Sagna, S. (2019). A typological overview of eegimaa (jóola banjal). Studies in African Linguistics, pages 25–53.
- [12] Tendeng, O. (2007). Le Gusiilay: un essai de systematisation: une contribution a l'étude du Jóola, volume 258. Peter Lang.