Pre-Workshop “On the Afranaph database architecture”

We are planning to provide a pre-workshop in the afternoon of December 9 for those who would like to see how our database works as it is now, and how it can be extended to host sister projects. This informal presentation will show you how you can build an autonomous project within our database architecture. Please RSVP to Jeremy Perkins (jerperk@rutgers.edu) by no later than Monday, December 6th, 2010.

More Information at the Conference Website: <http://www.africananaphora.rutgers.edu/>

The APDW is hosted by the Afranaph Project (NSF BCS-0919086), the Office of International Programs, the Center for African Studies, the Department of African, Middle Eastern and South Asian Languages and Literatures, and the Linguistics Department of Rutgers University, New Brunswick.
